

YOUR MAIL ADDRESS,

12/31/90

Thanks for the info in your 12/27.

The first ref. for which I know to the Red Bird airport is not in an article but in Richard Popkin's The Second Oswald, in a footnote attributed to Jones Harris.

Betrayal is a fake book, from beginning to end. It is probable that Morrow as well as Eldones used Popkin as an unattributed source. Which is not uncommon.

I've forgotten Betrayal and didn't remember hearing from Moch that Roscoe White may have been patterned on William Gonsolo in it.

I've not heard anything about Perry Russo in years. Perhaps he is dead but that Morrow says so need not mean he did die.

Thanks and best wishes,

Healy
